Why don't we get wise and stop feeding the lawyers, and start to move forward with innovation and new developments? That's the backbone of freedom, and freedom is America. Let's not be envious of a business which has developed some of the most advance technology in the history of the world, but instead lets us praise their ability and creativity. That's what is making America such a great country. Recent events prove that the rest of the world envy our ability to innovate and create. Microsoft, IBM, GE, INTEL, etc., are among others, some of the great innovators and creators of this world.
